To summarize, for information, data received during the night from offices involved in the continuing investigation of the leak of classified information to "The New York Times."

We previously developed information indicating that Neil Sheehan, a writer for "The New York Times" who was in the Boston area in March, 1971, reproducing the Pentagon study, was possibly staying at the Treadway Motor House, Cambridge, Massachusetts, using the assumed name Samuel Johnson. Our Boston Office has interviewed [redacted] of the Treadway Motor House who [redacted] Samuel Johnson in Room 215 at 4:30 p.m., 3/20/71. This person recalls Johnson [redacted] and identified a photograph of Sheehan as a look alike for the individual registering as Johnson.

We have previously developed information indicating that individuals active in the New Left and Communist Party (CP) circles do not trust Ellsberg and consider him to be politically immature. A local Boston area anti-establishment newspaper, in its edition of 7/20/71, carried an article denouncing Ellsberg as a longtime instrument of Government policy and member of the elite whose radicalism evolved from his cognizance that he was allied with losers. It indicated Ellsberg was merely belatedly joining a trend of long standing in the academic community of becoming alienated from current United States - Vietnam policy.

Q5 Picture postcard bearing hand printed address "J.E. Hoover 9th and Pennsylvania Ave. N.W. Washington D.C. 20002 USA" postmarked "Neu Ulm, 2 791 9-7. 71-3"

Result of examination:

~~It was concluded that the signature and countersignature on specimen Q2 were prepared by SUSAN M. SHEEHAN, FBI#757113H, based upon a comparison with a fingerprint card signature and specimen Kc2.~~

~~Because of the lack of comparable known material, together with the presence of unexplained variations, it could not be determined whether any of the remaining questioned writing on specimens Q1 through Q5 was or was not prepared by CORNELIUS MAHONEY SHEEHAN Kc1, SUSAN M. SHEEHAN Kc2, or by DANIEL ELLSBERG, Kc4.~~

Some differences were noted which indicate that the questioned signature on specimen Q5 was not prepared by the writer of specimen Kc4.

To refer to Bureau Laboratory material received in instant matter for purpose of handwriting comparison.

Attached herewith is a risque picture postcard sent to the Director from Germany, postmarked 7/9/71, purportedly signed by "Dan Ellsberg" possibly identifiable with our principal suspect in this matter and charged with illegal possession of confidential documents.

Also enclosed is airtel from WFO dated 7/16/71 with its enclosures, the latter consisting of samples of Ellsberg's signature, hand print and handwriting. As noted in the enclosed WFO airtel, possibility exists the hand printing and handwriting on applications attached herewith could possibly be that of persons other than Ellsberg.

It is noted that the postmark of the enclosed postcard, 7/9/71, embraces a time span when it is known Ellsberg was in the United States and during which time he was not in possession of a passport. While the enclosed postcard could be the product of a "crank" or for a hoax, it is not impossible that Ellsberg actually sent the card to friends abroad for transmittal to the Director as a means of embarrassment or ridicule.

Bureau Laboratory is requested to compare signatures and handwriting on the enclosed postcard with the known hand print, handwriting and signatures of Ellsberg appearing in the enclosures herewith. Handwriting samples of Ellsberg as furnished herewith may be maintained in the Bureau Laboratory for appropriate document examination in connection with other facets of this matter in the future.

ACTION:

If approved, Bureau Laboratory should conduct appropriate comparison examinations of handwriting on attached postcard against samples of Ellsberg's signature and appropriately furnish results to Domestic Intelligence Division.

[REDACTED] stated that when initially contacted by the FBI [REDACTED] he was of the opinion that ELLSBERG was on loan from Rand Corporation, Santa Monica, to the Pentagon, working on the Vietnam Study from about the Winter, 1967, to Summer, 1968. He stated, however, that upon further recollection [REDACTED] and as a result of a recent discussion with [REDACTED] Department of Defense (DOD), he now, to the best of his recollection, believes ELLSBERG in fact served at the Pentagon from about the Fall, 1967, to early 1968. In this connection [REDACTED] recalled the North Vietnam "Tet" Offensive as occurring in February or March, 1968, and at about this time ELLSBERG having come back to WDC, to show people a paper he had written at Rand in which he attempted to demonstrate that the Saigon, South Vietnam regime had collapsed. [redacted] recalls further that ELLSBERG had left the Pentagon and returned to the Rand Corporation, Santa Monica, prior to the Tet Offensive and at that time was no longer involved with the Vietnam Task Force after he left the Pentagon.

[redacted] added that as of a matter of fact in probability [redacted]

[redacted] ELLSBERG followed his suggestion, [redacted]
returned to Rand Corporation in Santa Monica. [redacted]

Concerning ELLSBERG's public release of the Vietnam Study to "The New York Times" (Times), newspaper, [redacted] commented that in his opinion ELLSBERG is an "independent actor". He stated that he believes that when ELLSBERG made up his mind to release the "Pentagon Papers" he did not require any encouragement from anyone else. [redacted] feels that ELLSBERG now thinks he has become the "man of the year; a sort of hero", and that ELLSBERG fully anticipated this.

[redacted] stated that he is of the opinion that ELLSBERG was the initial source for all claimants now reported to have possession of the Vietnam Study.

[redacted] advised that after ELLSBERG left the Pentagon (early 1965), he returned to Rand and began work for Rand on an entirely different Vietnam study. ELLSBERG then, through [redacted]

[redacted] possession of [redacted] Rand Corporation. At that time [redacted] approached [redacted] and asked him about [redacted] to allow ELLSBERG access to the Study. [redacted] told [redacted] on this occasion that he would not agree to access by ELLSBERG, and [redacted] advised [redacted] Still later, [redacted] again raised the question of ELLSBERG being given access to the McIlamara Study, and at that time [redacted] reluctantly gave his permission. [redacted] said that in giving his consent he explicitly stated that he was agreeing to ELLSBERG's access reluctantly because of his feeling about ELLSBERG's "stability".

When explaining what he meant by ELLSBERG's stability, [redacted] stated that he knew that ELLSBERG, while working on the McNamara Study at the Pentagon, had told people in WDC that he was in fact working on such a Study, at a time when the fact that such a Study was being made was sensitive information. [redacted] did not recall the identities of any of the individuals to whom ELLSBERG had disclosed the fact he was working on a "Vietnam Policy Study".

Concerning the decision to transfer the McNamara Study to the Rand Corporation, WDC, just prior to the change of the administration (December, 1968 - January, 1969, period), [redacted] advised that in January, 1969, [redacted] made his decision to leave the [redacted] DOD, at which time [redacted] was also thinking of leaving DOD, there was some concern on the part of those who had assisted in preparing the Office of Secretary of Defense (OSD) Vietnam Task Force history of U. S. involvement in Vietnam, that perhaps the entire Study might later be destroyed by DOD. They felt that at least one copy of the Study should be preserved. [redacted] said that as of January, 1969, all of the studies that made up the complete history of U. S. involvement in Vietnam were completed. However, at that time, many of the documents were being retyped under the direction of [redacted] DOD, preparatory to printing of the 47 volume final report. [redacted] stated that [redacted] discussed the matter with [redacted] and they decided that two things should be taken out of the Pentagon and stored at Rand, WDC, pending the retyping of documents and distribution of the final sets. He said that this would then assure that pertinent portions of this material would be at [redacted] disposal.

One item decided upon to be taken to Rand, WDC, was a 38 volume "working set" of the McNamara Study. The second item was [redacted] private papers, along with binders and notebooks of other individuals who had worked on the Study. [redacted] stated that this was the only material dispersed to the Rand Corporation in January, 1969.

[redacted] advised that he did not believe that [redacted] who had succeeded [redacted] as Secretary of Defense in 1968, was even consulted on this move of DOD material to Rand.

[redacted] said that [redacted] did not want anything to do with the history of Vietnam; he not believing in history writing by DOD.

[redacted] stated that all of the above material was sent to the Rand Corporation, WDC, as "private papers", and that it was his understanding that the DOD contract with Rand had provisions for the storing and retaining of private papers, accounted for through the Rand system of accountability.

[redacted] could furnish no information concerning the private papers of [redacted] and [redacted] having later been taken from Rand and stored at the National Archives of the U. S. (Archives). He stated that he had no private papers at Archives.

Continuing his discussion of the movement of documents to the Rand Corporation, WDC, in January, 1969, [redacted] stated that it was not felt that the incoming administration would in any way misuse the McNamara Study, but that this step was taken merely to insure that the Study would remain in existence. [redacted] reiterated that the participants in the Study recognized the possibility that "someone on high" in DOD might at some later time, make a decision to destroy the entire Study. [redacted] emphatically repeated that there was no question of possible misuse by the incoming administration.

Concerning additional documents available to ELLSBERG at the Pentagon, [redacted] pointed out that during the 1964-1965 period, ELLSBERG was employed by the Assistant Secretary of Defense for ISA, DOD, at the Pentagon concerned with Vietnam affairs. [redacted] advised that during this 1964-1965 period ELLSBERG had a private safe somewhere in the Pentagon in which he stored documents and which safe was maintained for him at the Pentagon during the time ELLSBERG served with the U. S. Department of State (USDS), in Vietnam, 1965-1967.

[redacted] said that when ELLSBERG returned to the Pentagon in late Summer or Fall, 1967, he brought these documents to the Vietnam Task Force Study, and some of these documents, not otherwise available to the Task Force, were used in the Study. It is [redacted] understanding that these documents, under ELLSBERG's control, were later taken to Rand Corporation, WDC, by ELLSBERG and placed into the Rand accountability system.

[redacted] during this interview, related back to information furnished FBI on 6/15/71, concerning [redacted] of [redacted] and stated that the [redacted] visited him on further reflection he [redacted] that when [redacted] old him that he had interviewed approximately a year ago, [redacted] had some background [redacted] stated that it was evident that [redacted] had some background knowledge of this matter, and that he asked a great number of questions to which [redacted] replied to [redacted] that he could not discuss because the information was classified. [redacted] at length, said, "Well, we have the stuff anyway." [redacted] then [redacted] from a March, 1969, memorandum of ROBERT S. [redacted] concerning U. S. policy making decisions on Vietnam. [redacted] at this point, told [redacted] "If you have stuff like that, you have no reason to talk to me" and then asked [redacted] to leave.

[redacted] that sometime later, he went to [redacted] office and held a conversation with him during which he related what had occurred when [redacted] visited him. [redacted] stated that [redacted] conclusion was that in the absence of further evidence, there was no need to do anything about it at that time.

All of the above information will be reported by FD-302 in WFO's next report.

SUBJECT: MC LEK
(NATIONALITIES INTELLIGENCE)

To summarize, for information, data received during the night from offices involved in our continuing investigation of the leak of classified information to "The New York Times"

A confidential informant who has furnished reliable information in the past advised 7/23/71 an announcement had been made by member of Federal Employees for Peace (FEP) that Daniel Ellsberg is to speak at the Mall, Washington, D. C., at noon during the fourth week of September, 1971, and that a day or two later he is to speak at a closed meeting of the FEP. While dates not firm, may be 9/24 and 9/26/71. This will be followed to determine specifics.

[REDACTED] interviewed 7/23/71 in effort to clarify conflicting statements by [REDACTED] regarding sight inventories of classified documents in Ellsberg's safe on 4/29/69, 11/18/69 and 4/17/70. This was during period Ellsberg was employed by Rand Corporation. [REDACTED] now states on first two occasions Ellsberg permitted [REDACTED] to visually check documents in his safe. On 4/17/70 Ellsberg requested [REDACTED] to leave the room while he opened the safe, which [REDACTED] did, and after Ellsberg removed classified documents from the safe, [REDACTED] returned and visibly checked them. Possibility exists the reason Ellsberg did this was to prevent Butler from observing 18 volumes of classified data which investigation has shown were in his possession but not recorded in the document control system at Rand.

REC 17

On 7/22/71 - [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] and a consultant to Rand Corporation, advised he became acquainted with Ellsberg in the late 1950's and was instrumental at having Ellsberg employed by Rand. He recalled when Ellsberg returned to Rand in late 1967 after serving a tour in Vietnam for U. S. Government he, [REDACTED], noticed an intellectual and moral deterioration in Ellsberg. While he had no knowledge that Ellsberg ever copied or disclosed classified information, he cited two instances which made him wonder if Ellsberg was a security risk. The first concerned an article by Ben Bagdikian in the "Washington Post" 5/17/70 entitled "The Government is a Cruel Liar." [REDACTED] opined Bagdikian was not knowledgeable concerning the material and based on the wording, [REDACTED] suspected Ellsberg may have written the article for Bagdikian. He had no direct knowledge, however, that this was true. The second instance was hearsay information received in Spring of 1970 that Daniel Ellsberg's son had informed his mother that he had assisted Daniel Ellsberg and others in copying classified documents in California. This incident undoubtedly relates to instant investigation.

Memorandum to Mr. C. D. Brennan

[REDACTED] California, advised 7/23/71 he had been informed by CBS news reporter, [REDACTED] that Ellsberg in 4/71 participated in a planning session in Ann Arbor, Michigan, for the May, 1971, demonstration which was held in Washington, D. C. Among antiwar leaders present at this planning session, according to [REDACTED] was Rennie Davis. We are contacting informants and sources regarding the foregoing in an effort to determine if Ellsberg was in fact at this planning session.

Prior investigation revealed "Samuel Johnson," believed to be identical with Neil Sheehan, correspondent of "The New York Times," resided at Treadway Motor House, Cambridge, Massachusetts, during period 3/20-23/71. It was during this period Neil Sheehan and his wife participated in the duplication of classified documents believed to have been used as basis for articles which appeared in "The New York Times." On 7/23/71 we determined that "Samuel Johnson" resided at Treadway Motor House on two other occasions, namely, 3/16-18/71 and 4/7-8/71. On the first occasion registration card reveals Johnson in possession of vehicle bearing New York license 1Z8954. We have determined this vehicle was rented by Neil Sheehan on 3/16/71 from Avis Rent A Car system, Bradley International Airport, Windsor Locks, Connecticut, and returned to Avis 3/18/71 at Logan Airport, Boston, Massachusetts. There appears to be little doubt that Sheehan used the alias of Johnson.

Prior investigation determined that Neil and Susan Sheehan cashed two Travelers Checks in part payment for duplication of documents in Boston area during period 3/21-23/71. One check was signed by Neil Sheehan and the other by Susan Sheehan. FBI Laboratory has concluded that the signature and countersignature on one of these checks was prepared by Susan M. Sheehan, wife of Neil.

ACTION:

For information.

Investigation continues to receive extensive investigative attention and you will be advised of pertinent developments.

Pertinent portions of data herein will be included in weekly memorandum to White House and will be furnished to the Attorney General, as well as the Assistant Attorney General, Internal Security Division.

It is noted that our Boston and New York Offices on 6/22/71 requested authority to check toll call records. In view of the publicity attendant to instant matter and the probability that data received as a result of such checks would be utilized in court, it is believed that such checks should be made by Agents in possession of subpoenas duces tecum for such records.

ACTION:

If approved, Domestic Intelligence Division will make arrangements for such discussion to ascertain the Internal Security Division's desires accompanied by representative of Mr. Dalbey's office.

[REDACTED] was interviewed by the writer concerning his knowledge of DANIEL ELLSBERG, it being noted that [REDACTED] is the individual who [REDACTED] ELLSBERG at MIT. [REDACTED] in the interview was completely friendly and cooperative throughout. As noted, he furnished background concerning ELLSBERG; and his comments as to considering ELLSBERG erratic and unstable as a result of ELLSBERG's disclosure of confidential papers to the newspapers were provided voluntarily. [REDACTED] further volunteered the identity of ELLSBERG's secretaries as individuals who might assist in the Bureau's investigation. At no time during the interview were questions impertinent or foreign to the investigation asked of him which would have led him to feel, as quoted in the "Washington Post" article by SANFORD J. [REDACTED] made no such comment to the writer and gave no indication whatsoever during the interview that he felt the writer was probing into a field of inquiry outside the proper scope of investigation. The following is submitted concerning a story by one SANFORD J. UNGAR published in the "Boston Sunday Globe" of 7/25/71 as that story relates to an interview of [REDACTED] of Harvard University:

[REDACTED]

The interview began at 3:30 p.m. and terminated at approximately 4:15 p.m. Throughout the interview, [REDACTED] displayed a genial attitude and at no time did the Agents engage in any argument or other conversation with undertones of bitterness, sarcasm, prejudice, or hostility.

No reference was made to any specific Federal Grand Jury investigation. When [REDACTED] stated he did not desire to make any statements which might incriminate ELLSBERG, he was reminded that he [REDACTED] could be subject to subpoena as a witness before a Federal Grand Jury. He then agreed to entertain questions by the interviewing Agents but reserved the option of declining to give responses when the effect would tend to incriminate ELLSBERG. The Agents agreed to proceed with the interview with this understanding.

At no time were any leading questions presented to [REDACTED] nor were suggested answers to questions offered to [REDACTED]. In response to a question as to whether ELLSBERG suffered from emotional pressures which might have motivated his release of the Pentagon papers, [REDACTED] replied that he was not aware of any emotional factors or psychiatric history which might have influenced ELLSBERG's conduct.

Asked to specify ELLSBERG's motivation, [redacted] responded that in his opinion ELLSBERG acted out of honest conviction on the Vietnam issue. On his own initiative, he added that he was certain ELLSBERG was not motivated by money and that the most ELLSBERG would have received monetarily, if anything, was reimbursement for any travel expenses he may have incurred.

At no time was [redacted] questioned along lines tending to incriminate him in the release of the Pentagon papers. At no time did interviewing Agents express their personal views on the Vietnam issue. Without being questioned on the issue, [redacted] volunteered that he was opposed to United States Vietnam policy and that he admired ELLSBERG for his release of the Pentagon papers.

The quotations attributed by [redacted] to the interviewing Agents about ELLSBERG having been motivated by money or glory are categorically false.

A comprehensive account of the positive results of interview of [redacted] is set forth in an FD-302 dated 7/14/71 reproduced on pages 34a and 34b of report of [redacted], dated 7/14/71 at Boston. [redacted]

Visits Stir Cambridge

FBI Calls on Ellsberg Friends

By Sanford J. Ungar
Washington Post Staff Writer
CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—
Sam Popkin returned to his office at Harvard's Center for International Affairs on Monday, July 12.

He had been abroad, first in Hong Kong, then at a convention of political scientists in Germany, and missed the entire crisis surrounding newspaper publication of the Pentagon papers.

But he was not long in catching up.

Just after lunchtime that Monday, two FBI agents called on Popkin, as assistant professor of government, to talk about his good friends and frequent dinner companions, Daniel and Patricia Ellsberg.

Ellsberg has publicly acknowledged making copies of the secret Pentagon study on the war in Vietnam available to the press. Although he has already been indicted in Los Angeles for theft and unauthorized possession of government documents, a federal grand jury in Boston is considering further charges against him, the newspaper and any intermediaries.

Citing the grand jury investigation, the FBI agents stayed with Popkin for 90 minutes, alternating questions about the Pentagon papers with personal ones about the Ellsbergs.

Uncertain about his legal obligation to cooperate with the agents, Popkin says, he talked with them—"but I told them I didn't want to do anything to hurt Dan."

At about the same time, another agent from the Hyannis office of the FBI visited the Cape Cod summer home of Everett E. Hagen, director of the Center for International Studies at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Hagen, too, was questioned about Ellsberg—how Ellsberg had been selected as a senior research associate at the MIT Center and, again, queries about his "personal qualities."

"I had a feeling," Hagen says, "that they would have liked me to say, 'Dan Ellsberg's kind of an odd person; he stands on his head in his office every afternoon.'"

Many other people, the prominent and the relatively obscure alike, have been approached in recent weeks as the FBI has combed through this city's two vast university communities in what appears to be a new, intensified investigation of the central figure in the Pentagon papers case.

The investigation has produced a rare suspense for an otherwise lackadaisical Cambridge summer.

Usually, those contacted by the FBI immediately get on the phone to warn others that the agents may be coming. Few will speak to a reporter on the telephone, suspecting that their lines are tapped. Breakfasts, lunches and dinners are consumed with speculation and second-guessing about what the Boston grand jury may be doing, who will be subpoenaed next.

The case is almost constantly in the headlines of Boston's two semi-underground newspapers, which are widely read here. One of them, Boston After Dark, gave its readers a practical warning last week:

"IMPORTANT: If you are approached by FBI agents, you do not have to talk with them. Beware of lying to G-men. The Bureau assumes that those who lie are trying to protect someone. If you receive a subpoena to appear before a grand jury, be sure to contact a lawyer for advice."

Some approached by the FBI cooperate, some do not. Some will not say if they have, referring a reporter to university news offices with an angry shake of the head.

Among those most visited by federal agents are photocopying firms, which do a booming business in a university town.

The MIT branch of the Gnomon Copy Service, a 10-minute walk from Ellsberg's office, apparently has been a special focus of the investigation. Agents have particularly inquired about people employed there last summer.

It is well-known that Ellsberg, like hundreds of others, is the academic community here, was a good customer a Gnomon.

But, as the FBI has undoubtedly learned in its interviews, it is difficult to establish what anyone copied at any particular time, since customers with private material are often permitted to operate Gnomon's Xerox machines themselves at night.

Speaking over the unrelenting click of a photocopy machine last week, George Lye, manager of the MIT branch of Gnomon, stressed that he was none too eager to cooperate with the investigation.

"It's not for us to enforce the laws," he said.

Some of Ellsberg's personal friends say that they pointedly refused to talk with visiting agents. One, a free-lance journalist, found that they stopped contacting her when she insisted upon having a lawyer present for any interview.

Jane Pratt, an MIT graduate student who uses an office at the Center for International Studies to work on her doctoral dissertation about Vietnam, says she had several mysterious phone calls in the early part of the Ellsberg investigation.

People claiming to be newspapermen would call, asking to discuss Ellsberg with her, she said. But each one refused to leave his phone number or to provide the name of an editor with whom she might check his identity, she added.

Miss Pratt, who said she went sailing to avoid involvement in the investigation, suspects that the FBI was the source of those phone calls.

Others close to Ellsberg express a bemused disappointment that they have not yet been asked about him.

Wassily Leontief, a Harvard economics professor who supervised Ellsberg's studies, said he had expected a visit from the FBI when he heard about the investigation.

Leaving him out, Leontief said, "shows that it's a selective thing. This proves that it is not a very thorough investigation."

Of those known to have been contacted by the FBI who are willing to discuss it, Popkin's session appears to have been the most extensive.

He said that in personal questions, the agents stressed words like "emotions," "stability" and "psychiatric" as well as "unduly," "overly" and "unnecessarily." Like Hagen, Popkin said he had the impression that the agents were trying to elicit negative comments about Ellsberg.

Popkin said he feared the agents were trying to implicate him in the Pentagon papers case, too, with remarks like "Gee, professor, you know about the war. What do you think about this Vietnam mess?"

(Currently working on a book about the pacification program in Vietnam, Popkin has taken part with Ellsberg and others, including some authors of the Pentagon papers, in Harvard and MIT seminars on the war.)

Most typical of the agents' visit, he said, was a series of questions where they seemed to be exploring Ellsberg's motives for making the study available to the press.

"I guess Ellsberg must have done this for money," Popkin remembers one of the agents saying. He said he argued bitterly with the agent, pointing out that he did not think Ellsberg would do things that way.

"Well," countered the other agent as the argument subsided, "I guess he must have done it for glory."

"The Washington Post," on 7/25/71, carried an article critical of Bureau's current investigation at Boston of the leak of classified information by Daniel Ellsberg. Pertinent points of article highlighted and explanations by Boston Office refuting article summarized. No administrative action recommended.

The article in question (attached) claimed interview by Bureau Agents of [REDACTED] left feeling with [REDACTED] that interviewing Agents wanted him to say Ellsberg was an "odd person" and sought details of how Ellsberg had been selected for position at MIT.

When interviewed on 7/8/71, [REDACTED] was completely cooperative and voluntarily provided information showing he considered Ellsberg erratic and unstable. At no time during the interview were questions asked that were impertinent or foreign to the investigation or which would have led [REDACTED] to feel he was being encouraged to say that Ellsberg was an "odd person," and he gave no indication whatsoever that he felt interviewing Agent was probing into a field of inquiry outside proper scope of investigation.

Article deals, at length, with interview by Bureau Agents of one [REDACTED] a fellow worker of Daniel Ellsberg at Harvard's Center for International Affairs. [REDACTED] claimed he had been interviewed for an hour and a half, claiming that personal questions regarding Ellsberg by the interviewing Agents stressed words like "emotions," "stability," and "psychiatric." [REDACTED] claimed he felt the interviewing Agents were trying to implicate him in the Pentagon case and asked questions to explore Ellsberg's motives for making the study available to the press.

Actually, the interview of [REDACTED] took place from 3:30 p.m. to approximately 4:15 p.m., 7/12/71. Throughout interview, [REDACTED] was genial and at no time engaged in an argument or conversation with undertones of bitterness, sarcasm, prejudice or hostility. During interview, [REDACTED] clearly indicated his support of Ellsberg, noting that he was opposed to U. S. Vietnam policy and admired Ellsberg for his release of Pentagon papers. Quotations attributed by [redacted] to interviewing Agents about Ellsberg's having been motivated by money or glory have been denied by affidavit from interviewing Agents as categorically false.

A third item of interest in the attached article relates to alleged inquiry by Bureau at Gnomon Copy Service, pictured by the newspaper writer as being target of special investigative attention in the Ellsberg matter.

No inquiries had been made at [redacted] relative to the Ellsberg matter, but earlier inquiries were made there to pin down whereabouts of a Bureau [redacted] employed at [redacted] earlier this summer. It would appear the owner of the [redacted] Copy Service is trying to use the [redacted] for publicity purposes.

[redacted] and [redacted] both mentioned in the attached article as being acquainted with Ellsberg, had not been the object of Bureau investigation in this matter since there has been no prior indication that they could furnish any information of substantive value to our inquiry.

OBSERVATIONS:

It appears that this is another attempt by "The Washington Post" to place Bureau in an unfavorable position by distorting facts of investigation and, through distorted reporting, attempting to create the impression of inadequate investigation. This investigation continues to receive intensive attention by Boston Office, and details of the article clearly reflect the inability of the "Post" reporter to uncover substantive information regarding the investigation. Explanations by Special Agents involved clearly indicate proper action on their part, and no administrative action is warranted. We will continue to press this investigation vigorously, recognizing that many of the persons to be interviewed will probably voice their personal political support of Ellsberg's actions and may try to enhance his position by reporting such interviews to the press.

Memorandum, W.R. Wannall to Mr. C.D. Brennan
65-74060

We will continue to emphasize, in our instructions to the field, that all interviews must be conducted in a most circumspect manner, devoid of any indication of bitterness, sarcasm, prejudice or hostility against Ellsberg and should be restricted to the aspects of Ellsberg's activities relating to his violation of criminal statutes.

ACTION:

For information.

Conduct of interviews by Boston was proper and warrants no administrative action based on the distorted allegations by "The Washington Post."

The Bureau has further instructed, however, that disseminable communications in this matter should carry the caption, "DANIEL ELISBERG, ESPIONAGE - X".

Investigation to date has identified DANIEL ELLSBERG, Senior Research Associate, Center for International Studies, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass., as probably the individual who furnished copies of the McNamara Study to "The New York Times." Articles appearing in daily newspapers have reflected that "The New York Times" personnel utilized a suite of rooms in the Hilton Hotel, New York City during the period 4/22/71 through 7/71 in connection with preparation of information contained in the McNamara Study for publication. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] made available records of toll calls made from the suite of rooms at the New York Hilton Hotel by personnel of "The New York Times" during the above period. These records were made available in answer to a Subpoena Duces Tecum issued at Boston, Mass., by PAUL VINCENT, Deputy Chief, Criminal Section, Internal Security Division, United States Department of Justice.

On 6/25/71, PAUL VINCENT, Deputy Chief, Criminal Section, Internal Security Division, United States Department of Justice, authorized the filing of a complaint charging DANIEL ELISBERG with violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 793(e). The complaint was filed before United States Magistrate VENETTA S. TASSOPULOS at Los Angeles, California, by [REDACTED]

An arrest warrant was issued by the Magistrate at 8:45 p.m., Pacific Daylight Time, on 6/25/71; and the warrant was in the possession of the Magistrate returnable whenever ELLSBERG was located and apprehended. A bond of $100,000 was recommended.

ELLSBERG surrendered himself to Bureau Agents at the Office of the USA, Boston, the morning of 6/28/71 and at hearing, that date, before U.S. Magistrate PETER W. PRINCI he was released on $50,000 bond without surety.

A review of the telephone toll records made available from the New York Hilton Hotel above, reflected that the below listed telephone numbers were called from the suites assigned to "The New York Times". The offices listed below are requested to identify the listed subscribers to telephone numbers in their territory and provide information concerning those subscribers which would indicate any association they might have with DANIEL ELLSBERG or "The New York Times."

It is requested that the subscribers to the below listed numbers be fully identified and their degree of association with DANIEL ELLSBERG and/or "The New York Times" be established, where necessary including through interview unless good judgement dictates to the contrary. It is to be noted that the Bureau has advised that interviews of individuals connected with the press or other news media should not be contacted without prior Bureau authority.

Following submission of results by teletype, as previously instructed, include information developed in report form captioned "DANIEL ELLSBERG, ESPIONAGE - X."

Approval is being sought to send attached letter with its letterhead memorandum (LHM) to the State Department to request investigation in Morocco regarding the visit of Daniel Ellsberg in December, 1970.

We are attempting to determine detailed background information and that relating to the activities of Ellsberg. A review of his current passport, which is in the possession of the U.S. Magistrate, Boston, Massachusetts, reveals a visa stamp, which is partly illegible, indicating he arrived in Rabat-Sale, Morocco on 12/28/70. His passport reveals he arrived in New York City on 12/29/70. Information provided by the Diners Club, New York City, reveals a charge to Ellsberg in the amount of $108.94 from Tour Hassan, Rabat, Morocco. The date this charge was incurred is unclear; however, he was billed on 2/1/71. Ellsberg was billed through his Diners Club account for use of an Avis rental car in Casablanca, Morocco. The date this expense was incurred is partially illegible, but appears to be 12/29/70.

In order to fully round out the investigation concerning the subject and to determine any foreign influence exerted upon him, the State Department is being requested to establish his presence in Morocco and thereafter to develop details concerning his activities while in that country.

ACTION:

If approved, the attached letter and the LHM will be sent to the Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Security requesting investigation be conducted in Morocco to determine Ellsberg's presence in December, 1970, and activities while in that country.

and in event pertinent data is developed, same should be furnished Bureau by teletype, followed by report suitable for dissemination.

~~Recipients should also be alert for information which would lead to identification of the "Gandhian student" referred to above and appropriate investigation initiated and background and activities of this individual identified.~~

Recipients are again reminded that the Bureau is most interested in any information indicating association of Ellsberg with the CP, USA and antiwar New Left individuals and organizations and whether such persons and groups have played a part in the leak by Daniel Ellsberg of classified documents regarding the Vietnam war to "The New York Times" and other newspapers.

Minneapolis should immediately conduct appropriate investigation along these lines, and every effort should be made to fully account for Ellsberg's activities during his stay in the Minneapolis area on this occasion.

Any information developed relating to past or present relationship between Ellsberg and trial defendants or [redacted] must be immediately furnished Bureau by teletype, followed by report suitable for dissemination.

For information of recipients not in possession of referenced report, Ellsberg, during his trial testimony, spoke at length concerning the development of his anti-Vietnam war philosophy. In response to question as to whether he had ever attended meetings of "nonviolent" people, Ellsberg replied that he had been impressed by the example of "the Gandhian student and the Indian girl," and that the latter had invited him to attend a conference of pacifists. Ellsberg further testified that he had also been impressed by a man named "Randall Keeler," who was also present at this pacifist conference. Information available to Bureau to date fails to identify the Gandhian student referred to while investigation by Los Angeles indicates possibility that [redacted] may be the Indian girl referred to by Ellsberg. Boston is presently in process of determining present location of this individual prior to considering her interview.

Individual referred to by Ellsberg as [redacted]

[redacted]

San Francisco is requested to thoroughly review all references relating to [redacted] to identify nature, date, and location of the pacifist conference attended by both [redacted] and Ellsberg. All recipients should also be alert for such information

Airtel to Boston, et al
Re: Mc Lark

Minneapolis should immediately initiate appropriate investigation to determine the circumstances surrounding Ellsberg's surprise appearance as a defense witness. Investigation should include, but not be limited to, interview of [redacted], review of [redacted] newspaper articles relating to this trial, and contact of informants and sources in the Communist Party, USA (CPUSA) and anti-war New Left fields who logically might have been aware of Ellsberg's trip to Minneapolis to assist in the defense of news-worthy individuals charged with violent anti-war activities. In this connection, note that page 6 of referenced report, in setting forth Ellsberg's testimony, contains statement by the trial judge that a conference had earlier been held in his chambers concerning appearance of Ellsberg and his possible testimony. According to transcript, [redacted] attended this conference, and it is reasonable to assume that [redacted] who handled prosecution for the U.S. Government, was also present and may be able to recall details of this conference insofar as they relate to Ellsberg's appearance at the trial.

Referenced Minneapolis letterhead memorandum (LHM) contains information from a number of sources, who have furnished reliable information in the past, to the effect that [redacted]

This LHM also quotes an article from the "Minneapolis Tribune," issue of 6/27/71, wherein it was reported Daniel Ellsberg, while in the Minneapolis area for the purpose of testifying on behalf of certain members of the "Minneapolis Eight" had conducted three-hour discussion at the home of Attorney Tilsen, at which about 40 or 50 anti-war sympathizers were present.

It is noted that the "Minneapolis Eight" is the name afforded by the press to the group of individuals including [redacted] and [redacted] involved in break-ins of Minnesota Draft Boards.

Bureau has been previously advised by Minneapolis teletype 6/28/71, captioned as above, that no Minneapolis sources were present at the aforementioned meeting at [redacted] Bureau files fail to reveal, however, any [redacted] a surprise defense witness.

The latter individuals were part

A thorough review of all communications submitted

Attached is teletype to WFO authorizing interview of [REDACTED] for the purpose of obtaining any information in his possession relative to Daniel Ellsberg's attempts to furnish classified information to unidentified people on Capitol Hill.

[REDACTED], previously advised that he had heard rumors to the effect that in recent months the so-called "Mc Namara Study" was offered to various unidentified people on Capitol Hill and that [REDACTED] a lobbyist, knew the identity of the person offering the documents.

Investigation indicates [REDACTED] probably [REDACTED]

CLW was formed during 1962 with the announced intention of lobbying in order to accomplish the objectives of the organization, which allegedly were to reduce the risk of war, halt the arms race, and induce progress toward disarmament. In 1969, at the request of the White House, we furnished the White House available information in Bureau files regarding officers of the organization and the fact that the organization had not been subject of active investigation. The CLW has been registered as a lobbying-type organization with clerk of the House of Representatives since 1964.

There is attached teletype from New York 6/24/71 setting forth results of interview with [REDACTED]

On 6/23/71, [REDACTED] was completely cooperative and is anxious to help the Bureau in any way he can in our efforts to locate Daniel Ellsberg, our principal suspect in this leak case.

[REDACTED] made extremely cordial comments concerning the Director. He has not seen Ellsberg since September, 1970.

[REDACTED] 6/23/71 from [REDACTED] but does not know whether she is accompanied by Ellsberg. [REDACTED] considers Ellsberg to be guilty of "stealing and embezzling," disapproves of the manner in which he has apparently handled release of Government documents, and will promptly notify our New York Office if Ellsberg's location comes to his attention.

We have been conducting considerable investigation to locate and interview Ellsberg. It is patently obvious that he has been avoiding the Bureau and without any doubt is aware of our interest. We have by letter 6/18/71 to Assistant Attorney General, Internal Security Division, pointed out Ellsberg's lack of cooperation and strongly urged that the Department issue a subpoena for his appearance before a grand jury in New York. The Department has not responded to this.

We are attempting today through Ellsberg's attorneys in Cambridge, Massachusetts, to arrange an interview with Ellsberg. We do not anticipate that he will cooperate to any extent. We remain firmly convinced that Ellsberg should be subpoenaed before a grand jury.

MC LEK

(NATIONALITIES INTELLIGENCE)

OO: Los Angeles

For information of offices which have not received prior communications in this matter, "Mc Lek" is code name for investigation involving disclosures by "The New York Times" and other publications of classified information from documents commonly referred to as "The McNamara Study." These documents relate to a study of United States-Vietnam relations during the 1945-1967 period, and Daniel Ellsberg, who had access to the documents while employed by the Rand Corporation, has been identified as a prime suspect in the dissemination of this information to "The New York Times."

Daniel Ellsberg is described as being born 4/7/31 at Chicago, Illinois; 5 feet, 10 inches tall; brown hair; blue eyes; Social Security Number 385-30-9955. In connection with this matter, Ellsberg is under indictment for violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 793(e).

Intensive investigation of Ellsberg's activities to date has developed certain connections on his part with individuals and/or organizations reportedly sympathetic to or influenced by the Communist Party, USA. Ellsberg has also been identified as being in contact with anti-Vietnam War individuals and groups, and has been quoted by "Time" magazine as stating he appeared at anti-war demonstrations in Washington, D.C., and Boston, Massachusetts. As a result, the possibility of leftist influence in Ellsberg's activities relating to these classified documents must be thoroughly and completely explored.

All offices are therefore instructed to immediately check indices and contact logical sources and informants in the established Left, the New Left, peace groups, and similar organizations of a subversive nature for any information bearing on Ellsberg's past or present connections with such groups. In view of the importance of this case, this investigation should be given immediate, preferred, and continuous attention. Submit summary of positive information thus developed by teletype, followed by report captioned "Daniel Ellsberg, Espionage-X." Insure that all facets of positive information are fully and immediately explored, and necessary and appropriate leads to accomplish this should be set forth by teletype.

Offices developing no pertinent data as a result of indices and source checks should so advise Bureau of this fact by airtel submitted under "Mc Lek" caption.

In the event such information has already been furnished the Bureau in form suitable for dissemination, advise of such action by airtel, referring Bureau to specific communication containing such information.

Furnish Bureau six copies all reports and LHM's submitted this matter. A photograph of Ellsberg is being furnished separately.

NOTE:

~~We have been seeking evidence of tie-in by Ellsberg with leftist and peace groups, and we recently received such data, which did not appear in Bufiles, from several field offices which were in the process of covering other aspects of Mc Lek investigation.~~ Ellsberg is known to have traveled widely during past several years, and possibility exists he made contact with, or was active on behalf of, leftist and/or peace groups in number of localities in U.S. presently unknown to us. We are therefore requesting above investigation of all offices to insure we possess all available data of this type.

Reference my memorandum 7/20/71 reporting that the IEC had been asked to direct its attention to weaknesses in the United States Government's system of granting security clearances and procedures as typified by disclosures made in the Ellsberg case.

On 7/22/71 the working staff of the IEC met to consider the matter further. It was decided that the full resources and attention of the IEC would be devoted to this new project which was specifically requested by the President. Other estimates and projects which were previously scheduled have been suspended indefinitely pending completion of this new study. Estimates suspended include the study on 1) Interrelationship of Black Power Organizations within the Western Hemisphere; 2) Interrelationship of Arab Terrorist Groups and United States Black Militants; 3) an Assessment of the Jewish Defense League; and 4) a Continuing Assessment of the Antiwar Movement.

During the IEC staff meeting a detailed discussion was had regarding the scope and specific objectives of the study the IEC will undertake concerning Government security procedures as an outgrowth of the Ellsberg matter. Throughout the discussion it was emphasized that and agreed to by all parties that the IEC will in no way concern itself with reviewing the Ellsberg case from an investigative or prosecutive standpoint. Instead the IEC will seek to identify weaknesses and loopholes in current security practices of the Executive Branch which have come to light as a result of the "Pentagon Papers" incident and to make appropriate recommendations for remedying such weaknesses.

It was agreed that special attention should be devoted to the possibilities of unauthorized disclosure of classified information being made through the dissemination and handling of such data by non-Government agencies especially private contractors or subcontractors who are granted access to sensitive data in connection with Government projects. The IEC will focus particularly on such contractors who deal in study projects and policy matters such as the Rand Corporation and similar "think tanks." As a matter of fact the starting point for the IEC will be an examination of the Government's relationship to Rand and a review of policies and practices of Rand in handling classified information and granting access to it. (In this connection IEC will obtain copies of ongoing studies currently being conducted by Defense Department.) From there the IEC study will branch out to cover similar private organizations with access to classified information, with the objective of recommending specific measures to tighten security gaps and forestall a recurrence of the Ellsberg fiasco.

We learned yesterday that the Federal Grand Jury investigating facets of Ellsberg's acquisition and release of classified matter to news media would reconvene the first part of next week. After close of business yesterday, Departmental attorney, Paul Vincent, who has been directing the Grand Jury inquiry, requested Bureau assistance in service of subpoenas for three persons to be called before the Grand Jury in Los Angeles on morning of 8/3/71.

The three individuals involved are _____

~~Spencer Marx~~ maintained apartments in Cambridge, Massachusetts, where Ellsberg is believed to have turned over classified data to Neil Sheehan of "The New York Times" for copying purposes 3/21-23/71. Marx currently lives in a commune in Big Sur, California.

~~Walter~~ and ~~Guilfoyle~~ recently _____ They made statements through newspaper that they were acquainted with Ellsberg and were aware of Ellsberg's possession of documents.

In view of White House interest in this matter and based on Attorney General instructions to press matter vigorously, we have acceded in the past to requests by Department to serve subpoenas on witnesses scheduled to appear before Federal Grand Jury. Los Angeles Office was telephonically contacted to arrange to obtain subpoenas from U. S. Attorney, Los Angeles, and dispatch same to Denver and San Francisco for service.

ESPIONAGE - X

Daniel Ellsberg, born April 7, 1931, at Chicago, Illinois, was issued U.S. Passport J901454. He was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury, Los Angeles, California, on June 28, 1971, charged with violation of the Espionage Statute. The indictment was based on information developed in the current investigation involving unauthorized disclosure of classified information to "The New York Times" newspaper.

It is noted Ellsberg's wife, Patricia Valerie Ellsberg, nee Marx, was issued U.S. Passport J964177.

Investigation into the whereabouts and activities of Daniel Ellsberg has revealed that he traveled from Washington, D.C., to Montego Bay, Jamaica, via Miami, Florida. He traveled on Eastern Airlines flight 195 on May 14, 1970, from Washington, D.C., to Miami, and on British West Indian Airlines flight 401 between Miami and Montego Bay. He reportedly left Montego Bay May 18, 1970, by British West Indian Airlines flight 400 en route to Miami.

While in Ocho Rios, Jamaica, he reportedly rented a car from Budget Rent-A-Car, Post Office Box 281, at the cost of $9.34 on May 17, 1970.

We would appreciate verification of Ellsberg's reported travel to Jamaica, as well as information which can be developed regarding his activities and contacts.

ReDSairtels 7/12/71 and 7/26/71 which set forth extensive list of telephone numbers obtained in captioned matter as a result of subpoenas issued by the grand jury at Boston, looking into facets of Daniel Ellsberg's leak of confidential information to the news media.

Bureau has noted lack of uniformity in reporting information set forth as leads for recipient offices relative to identity of subscribers to telephone numbers listed in referenced communications.

Department of Justice has agreed that following phraseology should be utilized as predication for investigation of the separate telephone numbers: "Departmental Attorney Paul Vincent (or the U.S. Attorney conducting the grand jury investigation, as the case may be) furnished the following telephone numbers to the FBI for further investigation...." After this introductory sentence, full identifying information regarding the origin of the call should be set forth with the identification of the individual who is the registered subscriber to the telephone number mentioned.

Synopsis:

[REDACTED]

DETAILS:AT ST. PAUL, MINNESOTA

A representative of the New York Hilton Hotel, New York City, on July 20, 1971, made available records of all toll calls made from the suite of rooms at the New York Hilton Hotel by personnel of "The New York Times" during the period April 22, 1971, through July, 1971. These records were made available in answer to a subpoena duces tecum issued at Boston, Massachusetts, by PAUL VILBERT, Deputy Chief, Criminal Section, Internal Security Division, United States Department of Justice.

One such toll call was made from Room 1105 of the New York Hilton Hotel at 5:41 p.m., June 17, 1971, to Telephone Number 513-15-2131. The length of this call was five minutes.

Wick

[REDACTED]

All were unable to recall receiving any long-distance telephone call from New York City during the late evening hours of June 17, 1971, and added they have no relatives or acquaintances whatsoever in the New York City area. They stated that if such a call were received at their residence they would certainly remember it. They all stated that if it possible someone may have called them direct, and that they would then have been unaware that such call was a long-distance telephone call. They reiterated the fact that they have absolutely no knowledge of having received phone call from New York City at any time throughout June, 1971. Further, they all stated they never have had any affiliation whatsoever with anyone connected with "The New York Times," and that the only knowledge they possess concerning the "Pentagon Papers" is that they have read through the mass media. They are not acquainted with subject, and have never met him or at any time spoken with him in the past.

A confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, has advised that the "Calendar of Events" of the Women Strike for Peace, a national pacifist organization, for July - August, 1971, set forth information that a "benefit party for May Day funds" is scheduled for August 3, 1971, at "Clyde's of Georgetown," 3236 M Street, Northwest, Washington, D. C. Daniel Ellsberg, Rennie Davis and William Kuntsler reportedly will attend this "party." Rennie Davis was convicted in Chicago for his part in the demonstrations when the 1968 Democratic Convention was held there, and Kuntsler is a well-known defense attorney who was involved in the trial of the Chicago Seven. If feasible, we intend to determine the activities which occur at this "party."

but Ellsberg did indicate the book did not concern his "recent case," which [redacted] believed referred to Ellsberg's recent disclosure of classified information to "The New York Times."

Daniel Ellsberg

[REDACTED] advised on July 26, 1971, that about two weeks prior to the publication of the "McNamara Study" he heard that the bulk of the "McNamara Study" had been furnished to Neil Sheehan, a reporter of "The New York Times," by Daniel Ellsberg. [REDACTED] stated he received this information at a function which he did not wish to further identify and that he was furnished the information by a friend who had been told by an unidentified reporter of "The New York Times." [REDACTED] contended he did not know the identity of the reporter of "The New York Times" and declined to identify his, [REDACTED], friend by name. [REDACTED] advised he had not previously furnished this information to anyone in the United States Government, and further, that he agreed with the position taken by the United States courts in connection with the publication of the information.

[REDACTED] recalled that a week prior to the publication of the "McNamara Study" by "The New York Times" he was telephonically contacted by Neil Sheehan relative to an interview on a "confidential" matter. He was subsequently contacted by [REDACTED] also of "The New York Times," prior to the publication of the information and Smith questioned him as to whether or not the "McNamara Study" was an official Department of Defense document or a personal staff study. According to [REDACTED] he informed [REDACTED] that, in his view, the document was not an official Department of Defense document. During the course of this contact of [REDACTED] did not mention Daniel Ellsberg but indicated that information had been received that the document was in possession of Congressman Paul N. McCloskey, Jr., of California.

[REDACTED] also remarked that he told [REDACTED] he was aware that "The New York Times" was in possession of some of the "McNamara Study" and Smith appeared very surprised that Steadman knew this.

Prior investigation has revealed that Daniel Ellsberg moved his household furniture from California to Massachusetts in September, 1970. On July 28, 1971, [REDACTED] who was involved in this move, advised that in addition to picking up household goods at Ellsberg's home in Malibu, California, he recalled

~~picking up several cartons at the Rand Corporation, Santa Monica, California. These cartons were subsequently delivered to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Massachusetts.~~
~~[redacted] had no knowledge of the contents of any of these cartons.~~
Additional investigation is being conducted in an attempt to determine the contents of these cartons.

Prior investigation has revealed that Neil Sheehan, a reporter of "The New York Times," and his wife, Susan Sheehan, were in the Boston, Massachusetts, area during the period March 21 through March 23, 1971, duplicating documents which apparently were the basis for a series of articles on the "McNamara Study" which appeared in "The New York Times" beginning on June 13, 1971. Investigation has further indicated that during this period Neil Sheehan possibly stayed at the Treadway Motor House in Cambridge, Massachusetts, under the name of "Samuel Johnson."

SAMUEL JOHNSON'S

One phase of the investigation into the activities of the Sheehans during this period which is as yet unresolved relates to a total of six telephone calls placed from [redacted] room at the Treadway Motor House after 7 p. m. on Sunday, March 21, 1971, to locksmith firms. Interviews of the owners or operators of these firms have revealed that they were not open at the time the calls were placed and apparently the calls were not completed. In an effort to establish the reason for these telephone calls, interviews have been conducted with the owners or operators of 31 additional such establishments without developing any significant information.
